

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

I enjoy not have to answer calls in the evening with someone wanting to sell be new siding or windows for the "RENTAL!!" that I live in. When the phone rings, I now know that it is most likely to be a friend or family member that wants to talk to me. This is the only reason that I have a phone, not so anyone who wishes can call me and try to convince me to buy their product. This is one of the best ideas to come out of the local government in a long time.
